A redesigned version of the Yolo County Sheriff's Department website can now be viewed on the internet at www.yolocountysheriff.com. The website provides a wealth of information about the department, in addition to the many services Sheriff personnel provide for the community.

The site offers easy-to-use features, along with access to needed forms, fees and contact information for the public, including a link to Megan's Law. Sheriff E. G. Prieto stated, "The new website takes advantage of progressive Internet technology. The site has a clean, crisp graphical interface and includes a greater number of features than our original website design which was launched six years ago."

Sheriff Prieto first established a departmental website during the summer of 2002 as an outreach to the community. It gave the public an inside look at the Sheriff's Department, its three divisions, and various areas which include the Sheriff's Animal Services and Coroner Sections.

"The redesigned website offers a new range of information for public use," said Sheriff Prieto. "Using our modernized navigation system and 'Find It Fast' links the user can gain a greater knowledge of the department in an easier and quicker format."

Yolo County Sheriff's Department has proudly served and protected the citizens of one of California's original 27 counties since 1850. Sheriff E. G. Prieto has honorably led the department since 1999. Their motto of 'Service Without Limitations' is manifested in all facets of the department.
